This photo is a picture that was taken during the middle of the day on Saturday, the lighting wasn't very well as it was cloudy out, it's a picture taken of me passing the ball off to a teammate. To take the picture I used Centering to make me at the center of attention.

Edited Photo:

To fix the photo, I went in and cropped the photo to get rid of some of the excess space, as well as get rid of the flag and the fence as it was a distraction to the photo. To finish it off, I went and changed the tone a bit.

In this photo it was taken in the middle of a team meeting for rugby. My friend who was on his phone had looked up and was listening to our captain go over the professional game that we were watching. It was taken indoors during the night. In this picture I used centering to make James the center of the picture, as well as the rule of thirds to have his head at the top third, and his legs at the bottom third.

Edited Photo:

To fix the photo, the backpack in the corner was cropped out, as well as fixing up some of the dirt that was on his shoe and the bit of the tape that was hanging off the box. After cleaning that up a bit, I used the auto tone feature which helped to get rid of some of the blaring light from the lamp that was to his right.

This photo is a picture taken in the middle of a rugby tournament. It's a picture taken of me relaxing while waiting for the 2 other games and the motley to finish before we started to warm up again. For the composition I had myself be on the left 3rd, as well as the trees be in the middle of the picture.

Edited Photo:

To fix this photo, the sun got cropped out a bit to stop the glare from being a huge part of the picture, as well as getting rid of some of the distractions that are in the far distance

This photo was taken during the middle of the day of my dog sitting down. It was taken with the lighting of the sun shining through the windows, and with a bit in front of him to shade a little bit. For this picture I used the rule of thirds to put him towards the bottom right 3rd.

To make the photo look better, I cropped out the couch as well as edited the photo to get rid of the bit of the desk that was in the bottom left of the picture.
